PRESIDENTS' CORNER

In August I was on a marvelous trip, The Great Journey Through Europe, that was endorsed by AAUW. But – surprise – my husband and I were the only people with AAUW name-tags on.

Everyone else had a college or other non-profit affiliation on their name-tags. My husband got questions: "So what do you do with AAUW?" He referred everyone to me.

Imagine my surprise when two women from the University of Texas looked at my name tag and asked: "What is AAUW? I have never heard of it." I was absolutely taken aback that female college graduates did not know about AAUW and I'm sure I stuttered my answer. However, after we talked, the gorgeous blonde lawyer (and Texas graduate) said she was VERY interested in AAUW. I sent her the information thanks to Patsy. The other person was the 30th University of Texas alumni marketing team member who was responsible for the University of Texas alumni on board. She, too, had NEVER heard of AAUW and was interested in receiving information, which she now has in hand. She feels the alumni would be interested in AAUW.

Had I known about the AAUW elevator speech (which Patsy Quick sent out several weeks ago), I would not have felt as unprepared as I did.

What is an elevator speech?

An elevator speech is a quick summary of what AAUW is about – 30 seconds tops. The goal is to have the listener say "Tell me more!" That is exactly what happened to me. It was the "tell me more" that I had the problem with.

If I had it to do over again I would have been prepared with an elevator speech and said something like this:

AAUW is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization for women* graduates of 4 and 2 year colleges. AAUW examines and takes positions on fundamental issues of the day including education, social, economic, and political issues. Right now AAUW is focusing on pay equity. There are other significant issues that are important to women that are coming up that AAUW is focusing on. Each branch in the country chooses the issues they want to concentrate on through their programs and activities.

This fall, for example, our branch is focusing on sexual harassment, STEM education, and staying safe in the digital age. But we're not all work and no play. We have a fabulous book group, a gourmet group and a Game Night group that includes husbands and significant others. We try to have something for everyone so that all can learn, contribute and be part of the group.

I can send you a copy of our newsletter, if you'd like (get their email address). And, if you'd like, I can give you a call about our next meeting and perhaps we can go together. (Get their phone number and name)

*Yes, I know men can join but that makes a long talk even longer

KICKOFF DINNER A HUGE SUCCESS

On Thursday, September 11, 38 branch members congregated at Fiona's Irish Restaurant in Kingstowne for a very lively dinner to kick off our 2014-2015 year. This is one of the largest turnouts our branch has had. Thanks to everybody who came, ate Irish and shared summer news with each other. Joanna Crane arranged for two speakers from the League of Women Voters to help us all to understand the new voter identification rules put in place by the Virginia legislature. Thanks very much to Susan Zachry and Sue Worden for a valiant effort to inform our somewhat raucous and happy group. As a reminder, a number of branch members have signed up to help register voters this fall and this is an effort of which we can be really proud.

Thanks again for a great kickoff! Now on to the business of the year. See you in October!
